As informed earlier, we are extended the season Early Spring Season accordingly (Early Spring Season age 4-12 participant parents should contact Jen to set up Online Classes in May for free, if they do not want to wait for in-person classes to resume). Once it's determined safe to resume in-person classes, I'll send out the confirmed schedule to registered participants and those that expressed interest in registering for the rest of the extended Early Spring Season, or Summer Season. And, after the Early Spring season return date is determined, we will also open registration for the following season with a the start date to-be-set as the week after this current extended season will end. Parents will receive an email, a text, and will also be able to find the updated information on our website home page and Facebook.
